

The Los Angeles Writing Project

presents

Common Core State Standards (CCSS) Workshop

The Common Core State Standards in English Language Arts and Literacy: What Districts and Schools Can Implement Now

DATE: October 1st, 2011

TIME: 8am-12pm

LOCATION: King Hall D2071

FEE: $35

By 2014, all schools must adopt the new Common Core State Standards (CCSS). The Common Core State Standards are the first step in providing a high-quality education.

Get a head start in understanding the change by attending this workshop. Become a leader at your school to help other teachers and administrators apply the new standards. Pre-service teachers, credential students, teachers, and administrators will benefit by attending this workshop.

Participants will dissect the standards and apply the Common Core State Standards (CCSS) to their current teaching and understand how the standards were designed on a continuum.

Please bring a copy of ONE of your units and the current standards.

Presenters: Trina Dreyer (3rdGrade teacher)

Cyrene St.Amant (Elementary Curriculum Coordinator)

Elizabeth Proud (HS English teacher, Instructional Specialist)

Dawn Yang (Bitely Elementary, Academic Coach)

----- please cut and return -----

CCSS Workshop REGISTRATION

Questions? Call (323) 343-5901 or email lawp@calstatela.edu

Registration confirmation will be given via e-mail, including further information such as directions and parking instructions

Name: _____

Email: _____

Phone: _____

School: _____

District: _____

Please check one:

Teacher

Administrator

Student/Pre-service Teacher

Please send form and $35 check payable to The Los Angeles Writing Project:

Los Angeles Writing Project, KHC2094A

California State University, Los Angeles

5151 State University Dr.

Los Angeles, CA 90032-8142