In

Rehabilitation Services

The B.S. in Rehabilitation Services specializes in preparing students to work in a variety of occupational settings. In these settings, they will advance the independence, integration, and full participation of individuals with rehabilitation needs in the workforce and the community. Cal State L.A.'s B.S. in Rehabilitation Services provides a liberal arts education combined with a basic understanding of the various aspects of disabilities. Rehabilitation Services majors should select an advisor by the end of the first quarter of their junior year to draw up an official degree program. Graduates of this program frequently continue into one of the options of the M.S. in Counseling. Some of the coursework toward this degree can be used for subject credit in the M.S. degree. See a faculty advisor for more information.
