JFK memorial library master plan

An architectural rendering of a large, modern library building. The building features a prominent, long, horizontal structure with a grid-like facade, possibly representing a reading room or a central atrium. To the right, there is a taller, more complex structure with a series of vertical supports or columns, suggesting a multi-story building with a unique design. The overall style is clean and contemporary, with a focus on geometric forms and open spaces. The background is a light, neutral color, emphasizing the building's structure.

The University Library will be a transformative physical and digital center of intellectual exploration, knowledge creation, and scholarly and creative engagement that will prepare students to be life-long learners and information-literate global citizens in an increasingly digital environment.
