

A WRITTEN STUDENT CODE OF BEHAVIOR

What the instructor expects from you:

- That you be punctual for each class
- That you inactivate your cellphone or pager
- That you respect what I or your fellow students say
- That you come to class ready to ask and answer substantive questions on the day's assignments
- That you concentrate exclusively on this course during class hours
- That you study for an appropriate amount of time for this class (about 2 hours per unit per week)
- In chemistry lab, that you have your pre-laboratory work (flowcharts) done.
- In chemistry lab, that you strictly follow safe procedures and help your fellow students these same rules for the safety of all.

What you can expect from your instructor:

- That I will be punctual and prepared for each class
- That I will give each student a fair share of my attention
- That I will prepare you fully for your quizzes and exams
- That I will grade you fairly on the quality of the work you present
- That I will help you succeed in this class
- That I will be present to help you during my office hours
- That I will be available to you at times outside my office hours, if they are inconvenient for your schedule, by appointment
- In chemistry lab, that I will be present to help you understand the lab procedure.
