It is the policy of the California State University, Los Angeles (Cal State L.A.) to make its programs, services, and activities accessible to all persons with disabilities, to include students, faculty, staff and the general public who visit or attend a campus-sponsored event.

This policy applies, but is not limited to, academic programs and services, student services, auxiliary programs and services, procurement of goods and services, information resources and technologies, and capital planning, design and construction.

The Accessible Technology Initiative’s principle of universal design is an approach to the design of products and services to be usable by the greatest number of people, including individuals with disabilities.

Cal State L.A. will provide appropriate accommodations and support services and make reasonable modifications in policies, practices, or procedures when necessary to avoid discrimination on the basis of disability, unless it is demonstrated that providing such accommodations, services, or modifications would result in a fundamental alteration in the nature of the service, program, or activity or would create undue financial or administrative burdens.
