It’s Spring Time!

School is not only a place for education but a place where friendships have been established. Relationships establish trust, and communication. Friendships also develop character such as kindness, sharing, loyalty and compassion.

Trust ME!

Happy 4th Birthday Mia!
We celebrated Mia’s birthday on 04/04/12

Happy 5th Birthday Gianna
We celebrated Gianna’s birthday on 04/09/2012

Happy 4th Birthday Jordan
We celebrated Jordan’s birthday on 04/17/2012

Sound of Music

A new loud addition to the Magnolia room this quarter has been a new collection of musical instrument. From cymbals to bongo drums the music has been nonstop. We’ve been fortunate to have viewed a few group concerts given to us. In addition to the instruments different musical tracts have been played from orchestral marching band to African drumming. Sharing has been a key component when working with the instruments. When working in groups they have shown a great deal of patience with one another listening and working well with each other. With music usually comes movement. Music and movement creates a way of self expression and communication. Self-esteem, critical thinking, cause and effect are all facets that can coincide with music and movement.

Clay in the Rain

So much to clean, but so much fun! On a certain rainy day we had small groups of the class participate in a clay activity. They were able to explore the 25 pound clay blocks, but it wasn’t until they were broken apart that the real fun began. Working with their hands allowed them to experience a new side to sculpting and constructing.

The Magnolia room thanks Lydia and Natalia, Cesar’s mom and sister. They took time to spend some quality time with us making play dough molds.