Introduction

Welcome to the College of Business and Economics Advising handbook. This handbook is designed to facilitate a mutual understanding of roles and responsibilities among students and advisors to support student success. In this handbook, you will find pertinent information about the CBE advising process, services offered, and important academic policies to help you during your college career.

Throughout your college career, it is recommended that you stay connected with your academic advisor to remain updated on important information. To begin, we would like to introduce you to the academic advising approach and process.

There are 8 advisors in the CBE Student Services Center. Each incoming student is assigned to an academic advisor based on an alpha-breakdown. You are welcome to make appointments with other advisors, but it is recommended that you continue with your assigned advisor throughout your time at CSULA as it makes the follow-up appointments more efficient and effective.

What is Academic Advising?

Academic advising is a partnership between students and advisors that serves as a safe space for you to explore your goals and challenges. Advising can help you examine your personal, educational, and career goals, and help you understand how your courses fit into your goals for the future. Most importantly, it requires active participation between the advisor and student. Based on your needs and challenges, advisors can provide guidance and help you in making decisions about your educational goals. Ultimately, you are responsible for making decisions as you see fit for yourself, but we are happy to be a source of support and provide information to help you in your decision making process. As a student, it is your responsibility to follow appointment protocol. As noted previously, we do not offer walk-ins and any requests to see an advisor without an appointment will be denied.

Graduating on Time

Why is it important to graduate in 4 years?

If you think four years of college is expensive, try taking five or six years to get a four-year college degree. Not only will you pay another year’s worth of tuition, textbook costs, campus fee and other education expenses, but you won’t be earning money in your first job or getting started with graduate school.

Each additional year a student attends college there is a $51,580 added cost: the cost of attending college $8,580 and the lost wages of $43,000. It’s not just the cost of the education that you lose, but the earning potential over the additional year or years. Nothing speaks louder than cold hard numbers.

Cost of Attending College One Extra Year at College Two Extra Years at College Tuition & Fee $6,632 $13,264 Books and Supplies $1,948 $3,896 Lost Wages $43,000 $86,000 Total $51,580 $103,160

The most practical reason for graduating college “on time” is the money you and your family will save by not paying an extra year for school. It is simply more cost effective to graduate in four years.

The message is to graduate on time!

Tips to Graduate on Time

- Review your Advisement Report every semester after you register for courses. If you notice something is not showing up correctly in your report, schedule an appointment with your advisor.
- Review your major roadmaps at: calstatela.edu/business/advisement/academic-information
- Take 15 units each semester or 30 units per year to stay on track for graduation! You should plan to take summer courses if you register in 12 units each semester.
- Check your Cal State LA email – You will receive important information from your advisor and the director of advising, Dr. Janet Vera. You will also receive communication from your professors, financial aid, placement services, and other university services. Make sure to check your email year-round, including summer and winter breaks, as the university will send information pertaining to your academic status and financial aid notifications during these cycles. You can pick up a handout from our office on how to link your Cal State LA and personal email.

- Be aware of important dates & deadlines – Use the campus calendar located in the catalog to find important deadlines such as add/drop, financial aid refunds, reinstatement, SAP appeals, etc. These deadlines will also be emailed to your Cal State LA email by Dr. Janet Vera. You can check out the calendar at the end of this handbook for generic dates.

- Use your Advisement Report as a planning tool – Learn how to access your report:
  - Log on to GET > Self-Service> Student Center
  - Select “Academic Requirements” from the dropdown menu & select the arrow to load
  - The report helps you clarify your requirements, shows your GPA, and highlights your missing coursework. Review your report regularly to check your remaining requirements and to ensure that you are enrolled in the correct courses. Your Advisement Report is used by advisors and graduation evaluators to check your progress toward graduation. If you learn to use it on your own, you can plan ahead and gain confidence in selecting your courses independently.

- Check online resources prior to advisement appointments – Before each advisement appointment, check your Advisement Report, the e-catalog, and the university website as you may find answers to your questions using these resources. If you have additional questions after checking these tools, make sure to come prepared to your appointment with your questions.

- Attend CBE workshops, use campus resources, and meet with your advisor – All the resources, workshops, and events offered by CBE and the university are geared to help you in your academic progress. Make sure to take advantage of them while you are a student.

- Take initiative & responsibility for your success – It’s important that you take the initiative to ask questions, check your resources, and follow-up with your advisor rather than waiting for your advisor to contact you. Taking initiative will help you get ahead toward success.
