Dear CCOE colleagues: faculty, staff, students, alumni, community partners, and lifelong supporters,

Take a walk with me as I embark upon this journey of revitalizing the Charter College of Education into becoming an organizational culture that fosters the flourishing of innovation and creativity. According to the initial proposal of the “Charter” concept developed in 1993 by the CSU Chancellor’s Office, this designation “should give talented and visionary people the permission and power to think in bold new ways and to unleash and legitimatize new ways of thinking and acting on behalf of the citizens of the State.” Seven months have passed since I joined the CCOE in June 2013. Since then, under the Charter designation, there have been numerous changes in tasks and initiatives, including new resources in our college, all of which help make us proactive and creative leaders.

After a long ten-year hiatus, we have decided to continue publishing the Charter College of Education newsletter, The Mentor. By renewing the publication of this newsletter, we are able to share our collective vision of the college by telling stories of our impact in, for, and with the community. The Mentor helps us to communicate and foster our everlasting commitment to serve our diverse community of learners. Our collective mission is to enhance and cultivate our “Community Engaged Collaboration through Teaching, Learning, Research and Service.”

First, I would like to thank you for your constructively open and active engagement in the Quarter to Semester (Q2S) conversion process in conjunction with CCOE’s much needed curriculum transformation. I appreciate all of your continuing efforts in this important collective work. I will do whatever it takes to support, cultivate, and enhance our collective vision for the college’s transformative, transdisciplinary, and transdivisional curriculum in a manner that emphasizes the teaching, research, and service for our students and the community that we serve.

As a part of our Q2S Conversation/CCOE transdisciplinary curriculum transformation, Dr. Basarab Nicolescu, who is known as the “contemporary father” of transdisciplinary learning, research, education, and human engagements, will be spending all day meeting with our CCOE on Thursday, February 27th. We will have a rare opportunity to learn from and learn with Dr. Nicolescu regarding these topics:

- Transdisciplinarity and its Approaches to Education Presentation (SAW Meeting in KH C2091, 12–2 pm)
- Leadership in Transdisciplinary Approaches in Academia Conversation (Charter Room, 2:30–4 pm)
- Dinner and Conversation with Doctoral Students (Dean’s Conference Room, 6–7:30 pm)

Starting this year under President Covino’s new leadership, CSULA will be holding individual college-wide commencement ceremonies. In light of this new tradition, a new CCOE Commencement Committee was established within the SAW organizational structure to take care of the logistics of this special event. The CCOE commencement ceremony is scheduled for Sunday, June 15th at 5:00 p.m.

In addition, President Covino is strongly encouraging the growth and development of faculty grant-seeking and grant-writing activities in each of the colleges. For this reason, I am formulating an infrastructure to support the CCOE with this process. Thanks to the rich and thoughtful comments and suggestions from the CCOE’s faculty grant awardees, I have decided to establish an office dedicated to the CCOE Grant Resource Center, which will be located in King Hall D2076-B. To jumpstart this process, a full-time graduate assistant will be hired to support our faculty’s grant seeking/grant writing activities.

Lastly under President Covino’s leadership, development and fundraising have become key affairs for both the CSULA campus and its individual colleges. Development and fundraising should also be a part of the CCOE’s “DNA” in order to build a unique and sustaining capacity to support our students, faculty, staff, and academic programs. For this reason, I will also be forming a “CCOE Development and Fundraising Team” comprised of faculty, staff, students, and alumni. My primary goal is to be able to provide scholarships to at least 50% of our students during the time they are here working toward their degrees. I would like to extend an invitation to anyone who is interested in joining this team and would welcome any suggestions or feedback for CCOE’s Development and Fundraising activities. Currently, I have been working closely with Lisa Farella from our University Advancement Office and Amy Huang from our CCOE’s Dean’s Office regarding this initiative. We will also be hiring a graduate assistant to support our CCOE Development and Fundraising efforts.

In addition, we are in the process of forming a CCOE Dean’s Advisory Council to help strengthen our visibility and community outreach. This council will be comprised of external constituents. For this reason, I would like to ask you to recommend individuals (or organizations) who have been important community partners and strong supporters of our programs.

Our student enrollment numbers in both the Fall Quarter (102.1%) and the Winter Quarter (103.6%) have shown a positive growth. This is a very good sign! Thank you for all of your efforts in student recruitment, thoughtful and caring academic advising, and effective communication. I expect your efforts to continuously influence the CCOE’s positive growth in enrollment, which is one of the integral and foundational components of our current affairs.

In an effort to support the growth and enhance the quality of service to our students, we will also be hiring a Director for the Office of Student Services. I hope to fill this position by July 1st. Meanwhile, Dr. Lori Kim will be serving as the Interim Director whilst coordinating our Educational Administration graduate program. Lastly, we will be holding a workshop for “Effective Advising and High Quality Service to Our Students” on Monday, March 24th from 9 am to 3 pm to help strengthen the quality of our committed service to students. All division chairs, program coordinators, staff, and student assistants will be expected to attend.

That is all for now.

Let us always have inspiring moments WITH our students!

C COE’s Triad Connection
Concept developed by Eunsook Hyun, Ph.D., Dean

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Enrollment/Recruitment</th>
<th>CCOE Faculty, Staff &amp; Student Efforts</th>
<th>Development/Fundraising</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Attract more high quality students; Higher retention rates and academic success; Better resume for their future employability</td>
<td>Scholarship &amp; Awards</td>
<td>Gifts from other supporters and external constituents</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TA: Teaching Assistant</td>
<td>TA: Teaching Assistant</td>
<td>Development/Recruiting</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RA: Research Assistant</td>
<td>GA: Graduate Assistant</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SA: Student Assistant</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Generate opportunities and support-capacities for students</td>
<td>Future Gift Giving</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The concept of CCOE’s Triad Connection serves to illuminate pathways that strengthen student success and future donor support for the Charter College of Education.
hard at work developing an extended curriculum calendar so that the approval process can be as streamlined as possible. They have met with the members of all three Division Instructional Policy Committees so that consistent communication is established and maintained.

Q2S Charter Room Conversation Coordinator

Professor, Ann Snow

The Fall quarter Charter Room Conversations offered a rare opportunity to set aside (momentarily) our duties and obligations and consider ways to reconceptualize the CCOE as the campus moves to semesters in 2016. Dean Hyun set the stage for the Conversations with a challenge to break out of our traditional borders and boundaries and consider transdisciplinary collaboration across divisions. To this end, we read and discussed several scholarly articles and considered examples from Seattle University and Cal State Northridge to see how these campuses have incorporated transdisciplinary teaching and learning in their credential and MA courses. A blueprint for transdisciplinary teaching developed out of the Conversations which included topics such as multicultural competence, academic literacy, problem solving and conflict resolution, critical community literacy, STEM/STEAM, power structures and equity, mental health curricula, and practitioner inquiry. The blueprint may lead to the design of modules or courses that allow students to approach a topic or topics from multiple perspectives.

We also discussed a variety of other topics over the course of the quarter, including the possibility of reconfiguring the research classes currently required in the three divisions to incorporate a full blown research project that relates to students’ chosen area of study. Conversion plus strategies such as reinvisioning clinical supervision, internships, and field work, and adding elements of a residency model were discussed. How to capture the current technology needs of our students and anticipate rapidly changing future needs was a topic of much interest and concern. And with faculty considering online courses as part of their course and program modifications, we benefited from demonstrations by Sherry Best and Penny Semrau. Based on the survey conducted at the faculty retreat in December, there will be a follow-up by CETL colleagues in February. In sum, the Conversations provided an unprecedented opportunity to get to know our colleagues better and share across disciplines and divisions. In particular, I would like to thank the liaisons who attended many sessions and reported back to their divisions and the loyal core of colleagues who participated actively and took advantage of the Conversations to create a new future for the CCOE, despite the time and energy commitment it required.

In the Winter quarter, faculty will continue to rethink their courses and programs as they focus on the nuts and bolts of course and program modifications. The Charter Room is available for faculty consultation across programs. I am happy to schedule and facilitate consultation sessions.

SAW: Reflections on the CCOE Retreat

School as a Whole (SAW) Chairs: A. Dee Williams & Michele Wallace

On December 6, 2013 we had a follow-up CCOE retreat. During the retreat we focused on presenting and discussing the notion of Community Engaged Collaboration Through Teaching, Learning, Research and Service. A schema of centers was presented to the faculty based upon a re-conceptualization of the Charter College of Education based on a transdisciplinary “center” model. Each of the connected and interdependent centers would meet a specific need of the community and work in collaboration with the local community towards its vision of an ever-evolving definition. The following centers were presented: The Center for the Actualization of Transformative Education; The Center for the Advancement of STE(A)M Education; The Center for Assessment and Intervention Planning; The Center for Engaging Language and Literacies; and The Center for the Advancement of 21st Century Schools and Global Education.

We subsequently conducted a World Café around the schema. In the first rotation we asked, “What resonated with you? List three changes that you would like to make.” Faculty and staff indicated that the transdisciplinary nature of the centers, building on existing strengths of the CCOE, and the global perspective as some of the things that resonated. With respect to changes, participants recommended centralization of the centers, utilization of students for research, to include connections with other colleges and programs, and some reconfiguration of the centers. During the second rotation we asked, “What needs of the community are missing? What kind of center could fill the gap?” Respondents indicated some additional needs of the community are teaching families how to navigate education systems as well as specific interventions, and more programs. Some centers that were suggested to fill the gap included: Assessment and Intervention Center, Math Clinic, and Parent Center. During the third rotation we asked, “How might this center focus work to transform the college? The curriculum? What other transformation models should we consider?” With respect to transformation, participants indicated that the centers might provide direct connection between course-work and center projects, might become more multidisciplinary, and potentially invigorate the faculty. Some other models that were suggested were: Residency programs, Community Research Center, and adopting a school.

Our hope as SAW chairs is that this work will continue to re-conceptualize our college as we proceed through Q2S.
Faculty Grants and Awards for the Current Term

Principal Investigator: Anna Osipova
Project Title: Expedited Special Education Specialist Credential Program
Project Period: 9/1/2012 — 3/31/2014
Award: $34,856

Principal Investigator: Dr. A.Dee Williams
Project Title: Los Angeles Urban Teacher Residency
Project Period: 10/1/2009 — 9/30/2014
Award: $4,232,316

Principal Investigator: Dr. Cheryl Kamei-Hannan
Project Title: Braille Challenge App
Project Period: 10/1/2012 — 9/30/2017
Award: $500,000

Principal Investigator: Dr. Cheryl Kamei-Hannan
Project Title: Preparing Effective Transition Teachers of Students with Visual Impairments
Project Period: 9/1/2013 — 8/31/2018
Award: $90,000

Principal Investigator: Dr. Diane Fazzi
Project Title: Combined Priority for Personnel Development
Project Period: 9/1/2011 — 8/31/2014
Award: $250,000

Principal Investigator: Dr. Diane Fazzi
Project Title: National Leadership Consortium in Sensory Disabilities
Project Period: 8/1/2013 — 7/31/2014
Award: $80,172

Principal Investigator: Dr. Diane Fazzi
Project Title: Combined Priority for Personnel Development
Project Period: 10/1/2012 — 9/30/2017
Award: $250,000

Principal Investigator: Dr. Frances Siu
Project Title: Project Choice: CSULA HIV and Substance Abuse Prevention
Project Period: 9/30/2013 — 9/29/2016
Award: $900,000

---

Principal Investigators: Dr. Frederick Uy
Project Title: Student Mental Health Initiative (SMHI) Suicide Prevention Training Curriculum and Instructional Services
Project Period: 2/1/2013 — 6/30/2014
Award: $71,500

Principal Investigators: Dr. Holly Menzies
Project Title: California Reading and Literature Project
Project Period: 7/1/2013 — 6/30/2014
Award: $45,917

Principal Investigators: Dr. Holly Menzies
Project Title: California Reading and Literature Project
Project Period: 7/1/2013 — 6/30/2014
Award: $28,917

Principal Investigators: Dr. Jennifer Symon
Project Title: Collaboration of Autism Specialists Training
Project Period: 7/1/2009 — 6/30/2014
Award: $200,000

Principal Investigators: Dr. Lois Weinberg
Project Title: Leadership in Special Education for High Need Children in Poverty Schools
Project Period: 9/1/2012 — 8/31/2017
Award: $250,000

Principal Investigators: Dr. Lois Weinberg
Project Title: Project S-PUS
Project Period: 9/1/2009 — 8/31/2014
Award: $200,000

Principal Investigator: Dr. Robert Land
Project Title: Common Core-Based Professional Development in Argumentative Writing, Grade 9-12
Project Period: 8/16/2013 — 6/30/2014
Award: $8,000

Principal Investigator: Dr. Robert Land
Project Title: Supporting Effective Education Development
Project Period: 10/1/2013 — 9/30/2014
Award: $20,000

Principal Investigator: Dr. Robert Land
Project Title: Innovation Validation Grant
Project Period: 7/1/2014 — 6/1/2018
Award: $1,630,785

---

The Mentor

Publisher: Dean Eunsook Hyun
Editor: Amy Huang
Printing: Reprographics

Articles, announcements and commentaries for the next issue of The Mentor should be received before Jan. 26, 2015

Forward Inquiries and Submissions to:
California State University, Los Angeles
Charter College of Education
5151 State University Drive
Los Angeles, CA 90032

---

Cal State L.A.
Charter College of Education
5151 State University Drive
Los Angeles, CA 90032

RETURN SERVICE REQUESTED