Center for the Study of Genders and Sexualities

Call for Proposals for CSGS Research Fellows

Deadline for Proposals: Friday, November 3rd, 2017 at 5pm.

The Center for the Study of Genders and Sexualities announces an open competition for two CSGS Faculty Research Fellowships for work in the area of genders and sexualities. Although all topics concerning genders and sexualities are welcome, we are especially interested in research that explicitly takes up the study of genders and/or sexualities at the intersections of race, class, ability, nation, belief, or other dimensions. Engaged scholarship that involves collaboration with community-based agencies and/or that yields community-relevant results is also especially welcome, as is scholarship that involves and/or impacts CSU students.

Two awards will be granted. The award includes 3-units of release time. Release time will be taken in Spring 2018. Presentations by the winners of the competition will be expected in Fall 2018 or Spring 2019, and the work will be highlighted on the CSGS website.

All tenured and tenure-track Cal State LA faculty are eligible to apply. However, probationary tenure-track faculty will receive priority as will faculty from disciplines that have not been awarded CSGS research awards in the past.

Proposals will be reviewed by a CSGS Advisory Board subcommittee. Awards will be based on the following criteria:

1. Quality of the project and the proposal
2. Alignment with the CSGS mission. [see http://www.calstatela.edu/centers/csgs/about.htm]
3. Community engagement.
4. Impact on undergraduate and/or graduate students in the project.

Please submit a proposal that includes the attached cover page, a c.v., and a narrative of no more than two to three pages. Incorporate the following into the narrative:

I. Project Description

II. Project Significance
   a) Relationship of the proposal to the study of genders and sexualities.
   b) Contribution to your profession and field.
   c) Likelihood of the project to yield peer-reviewed publication(s).
   d) Potential of project to involve or impact relevant communities.
III. Student Impact
How will undergraduate and/or graduate students be impacted by the proposed project?
