Review of Essay 2

Karin began summarizing the draft of Essay 2 and discussed the data included in the Review under WSCUC Standards and Compliance with Federal Requirements Worksheet. The Steering Committee gave feedback on the draft of Essay 2.

Institutional Strengths:

1) The Steering Committee agreed that Cal State LA’s strategic plan was an institutional strength.

2) The Steering Committee suggested splitting the second strength into two separate strengths. There should be a differentiation between Cal State LA’s long-standing demonstrated commitment to diversity and Cal State LA’s increased efforts to promote civic and ethical responsibility and include information on civic engagement in GE, the branding effort, and community partnerships and external funding.

3) The Steering Committee suggested adding an update on other student support services and resources (specifically OSD) and Jen Miller volunteered to provide some content about these services to the Essay 2 team.

4) The Steering Committee acknowledged that Cal State LA’s increased efforts to promote a culture of assessment is a strength but there is room for improvement. The Committee suggested that instead of categorizing assessment as a strength or weakness, it might be best framed as a developmental process. This way, the narrative can reflect how assessment is a strength (e.g., assessment structures; resource allocation for assessment; improvements since last WSCUC Review) but other areas need improvement (i.e., culture of collecting and disseminating assessment data).

5) The Steering Committee agreed that one of Cal State LA’s strengths is the opportunity for faculty development, however, less opportunities are available for staff. Some opportunities mentioned by the Committee for staff development are the university-wide staff meetings, the institutional subscription to Lynda.com, and the advising academy (Michelle Hawley).

6) The Steering Committee also suggested including some examples of new facilities and changes to infrastructure and access as a strength (e.g., DTLA campus, PAGE programs, and university advancement).

Institutional Challenges and Opportunities for Improvement:

1) One challenge is our 4-year graduation rate, which is at about 9%. Many of our efforts have aimed to address this, including the EOP Early Start program, the revisions to the GWAR policies, and the CO’s implementation of new model to replace remediation in math and English.

2) Cal State LA is working to improve and enhance student support service areas, including Financial Aid and Enrollment Services. Though recent improvements have occurred, including changes to infrastructure and organizational structure, these service areas are still experiencing adjustment problems due to an increase in enrollment.

3) Cal State LA needs to improve its infrastructure for and use of technology throughout the campus. ITS is currently revising its strategic plan to address this issue.

4) The use of assessment data for decision making at the department, college, and institutional levels needs improvement.

5) Cal State LA needs to actively recruit and increase the number of diverse full-time tenure-track faculty across the six colleges. The Steering Committee suggested looking at data on student/faculty ratios and part-time/full-time ratios and their changes since semester conversion.
