Last meeting we had Michael, Paizha and Jenn talked about IRIS. Dean Rodriguez had provided an indepth overview of IRIS to the Dean’s Council this past week, who are all very supportive of this project. ORSCA will provide more webinar and workshops around a variety of topics to support faculty research. Topics available in couple of months include the IRB process, research life cycle, data management plans, intro to what ORSCA is and what services they provide, and how they can support faculty in research. The risk of opening protocols will be discussed for campus research labs, providing an overview of the protocols, and answer questions. Working with the Provost and Deans, we’re exploring to have IRIS faculty fellows identified from each College by Spring.

IRIS resources is open to all Ed.D and doctoral students to participate. Dean Rodriguez also encouraged undergraduate students to participate in the self-paced workshop. Students and colleagues are encouraged to provide feedback. A certification process will be provided if you complete a series of the five workshops.

Dean Rodriguez will check if a certificate of completion is provided for each individual self-paced workshops/webinars.

The Provost will be sending out a campuswide message within the weeks and Dean Rodriguez will also send his message talking about IRIS and other library initiatives. College Deans are encouraged to forward the message to their respective departments.

Status of the Library providing access to the collections – The Library has been working on for many months, developing workflows, processes, and the options for the campus community to get access to the physical collections not just from Cal State LA campus but other CSU campuses. Workflows are in place for this and for 22 other campuses. What is holding back is campus approval the for library staff to return physically to the Library to mail the materials.

The loan period for students is to end of August 2021 with ability to renew twice. For faculty, loan period is for one year from the borrowed date with the ability to renew again.

Two drop boxes on campus, both nearby the Library (entrance & Café 47) and possible drive up drop box being installed for those that would like to return the materials.

7. Merger of Library Subcommittee and AIRS

It does not appear that this is a priority for the new executive chair. Memo to EPC was not received or acknowledged last year. Might be better to not bring up the merger.
