ACADEMIC PROBATION

You are placed on academic probation at the end of a quarter if either your grade point average at Cal State L.A. or your cumulative grade point average in course work attempted from all of the colleges you attended falls below C (2.0). You continue to be on academic probation until your Cal State L.A. and cumulative grade point average is 2.0 or higher or until you are disqualified in accordance with the regulations for academic disqualification.

Student’s probation status is indicated in the Advisement Report on GET.

Students who are on probation need to see their academic advisor immediately! The University’s advisors are committed to helping students so their academic problems in one quarter do not carry over to subsequent quarters. Continued academic problems could result in the student being academically disqualified from the University.

Grade Point Average (GPA)

When looking at your quarterly grade reports, you’ll find three categories of GPA:

• Term GPA - is that quarter's GPA

• Higher Education GPA - includes all of your undergraduate course work (from CSULA and other colleges)

• CSULA GPA - is your cumulative GPA during your enrollment at Cal State LA

You must maintain a minimum GPA of 2.0 in all categories to graduate. Also, a 2.0 is required in your major courses for graduation. You can calculate any one of your GPAs by dividing the quality points by the attempted units, or you can use our GPA calculator

To find your Term, Higher Education and CSULA GPA in your GET account. Go to VIEW MY GRADE and select the term.

How to calculate your Grade Point Average (GPA): Divide total grade points earned by Graded units towards GPA.

This is a friendly reminder: Academic probation is different than financial aid probation. Students on financial aid probation should see a financial aid advisor in the financial aid office located in Student Affairs, room 124.
