

significations

graduate conference - May 11, 2013

Call For Papers

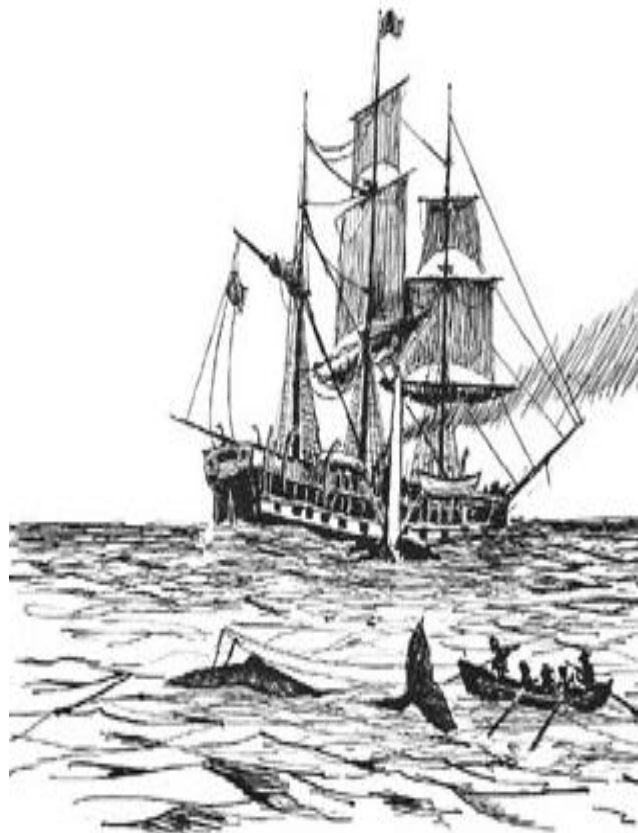

CSU graduate students who present their papers at Significations share their research and engage in professional academic discussion of their work during the conference. All submissions will receive feedback from reviewers.

Paper Topics

This year's theme is "The Collective." We invite submissions exploring the fields of literature, linguistics, composition and rhetoric, and creative writing. Areas of inquiry may also include cultural studies, critical theory, film, gender studies, philosophy, the social sciences, and visual and performing arts.

Submission Guidelines

Papers must be between 10 and 12 pages in length, including Works Cited and endnotes, and in strict accordance with MLA format. Anticipate 20 minutes for presentation of your paper. Please submit via email attachment (MS Word only) with a cover sheet stating your name, paper title, street address, email address, phone number, and institutional affiliation. On an additional page, please include a maximum 250-word abstract of your paper and a one-sentence thesis statement typed in bold print. A short biographical summary of your interests (fewer than 100 words, please) should be included. Please delete your name or other identifying information from the header or body of your paper. Graduate students may submit only one paper for consideration. The proceedings will be published by the CSULA English Graduate Student Association.

EXTENDED SUBMISSION DEADLINE

Friday, APRIL 12, 2013

Please send submissions to: significations13@gmail.com

KEYNOTE SPEAKER: DR. GEORGE HAGGERTY, UC RIVERSIDE

Questions? Comments? Contact the conference coordinator at significations13@gmail.com or (323) 343-4140. Significations Graduate Conference Committee CSULA Department of English 5151 State University Drive Los Angeles, CA 90032

...For the Students, by the Students!