

Kepler's Laws of Orbital Motion

Physics 1100

The “special graph paper provided in lab” mentioned in your lab manual is simply a sheet of graph paper (using a good quality will make things easier) with the location of the Sun drawn on the paper. This is important so that the diagram of your orbit fits on your page.

So that you don't run out of room, position the location of the Sun half way down and one-third of the way across.
