

Steve McGuire

Outstanding Professor 2012

Steve McGuire is a Professor of Management and Director of the Entrepreneurship Institute at California State University, Los Angeles, where he received the Outstanding Professor Award 2011-12. He previously taught at Georgetown University, the Catholic University of Portugal, Moscow University Touro, American University in Bulgaria, and The George Washington University, where he was awarded the Bender Prize for Teaching Excellence. Steve is a former partner of the HayGroup, where he worked as a management consultant for major organizations in 23 countries. Steve works one-on-one with students and members of the Los Angeles community to move from a business idea to a business plan to a new venture. He carries out empirical and case study research on culture and entrepreneurship, and the relationships between cultural values, conflict styles, ethics, and entrepreneurship among people in different countries. Steve earned a B.A. at Providence College, and M.B.A. at IESE (Barcelona), and a PhD in Business Administration at The George Washington University; he also studied at Southern Connecticut State University (New Haven, CT), The University of Coimbra (Coimbra, Portugal), and The Sorbonne (Paris).

For complete information, please visit our Web site at:

<http://www.calstatela.edu/univ/ppa/newsrel/opaweb.htm>

College of Business and Economics

California State University, Los Angeles

Phone (323)343-2800

<http://cbe.calstatela.edu>