New Dean of Business and Economics

G . Timothy Haight has been appointed as the dean of the School of Business and Economics, effective September 1, 1998. He was previously chair of the Department of Finance at Towson University in Baltimore.

Haight received his Bachelor of Science in Business Management and his master's degree in Business Administration at the University of Dayton, Ohio. He earned his doctorate in Business Administration from George Washington University in 1980.

He began teaching at Towson University, where he was assistant professor of Business from 1972 to 1977. He was associate professor of Finance at Loyola College, Maryland from 1975 to 1985. From 1986 to 1989, he held the Middendorf Chair of Finance at the University of Baltimore. He returned to Towson as department chair and tenured professor of Finance in 1989.

Haight has served on the boards of many financial institutions and is currently a director of both Farmers Bank of Maryland and Conducting Materials Corporation (CMC). He is also former president of Aerosol Monitoring and Analysis, Inc. and, as a financial consultant, has worked with such companies as Waverly Press, Inc. and PharmaKinetics Labs, Inc.

He has given numerous seminars and presentations and has written nine books and many other publications. Many of his articles have been featured in Personal Financial Planning, The CPA Journal, and Real Estate Accounting and Taxation.

Haight will be assuming the post held by Hugh E. Warren (Accounting) who has served as acting dean since September 1997. Warren was interim dean during the summer of 1997, and was the School's acting associate dean for academic affairs from September 1996 to June 1997.

Acting Dean of Continuing Education

James J. Kelly, dean of the School of Health and Human Services, has been named acting dean of Continuing Education, effective July 29, 1998. Kelly has agreed to serve in this post until the appointment of a permanent dean to replace Lynn Elen Burton, who has accepted the position of dean of Continuing Education at Simon Fraser University in Vancouver.

Kelly's administrative background includes continuing education experience in Hawaii, where he ran distance education programs on all seven islands for the University of Hawaii. He will continue to serve as dean of Health and Human Services at Cal State L.A.

Kelly came to Cal State L.A. in September 1997 from Cal State Long Beach, where he was director of Department of Social Work and professor of Social Work. He received his B.A. from Edinboro University of Pennsylvania, which named him Distinguished Alumnus in Social Sciences for 1997-98. He also earned his doctorate in Social Welfare from the Florence Heller Graduate School of Policy, Planning and Administration at Brandeis University, and completed a postdoctoral clinical fellowship inpsychiatry at UCLA/Sepulveda Veteran's Administration Medical Center.

Goodbye to Dorothy

State L.A. in 1984. Before coming to Cal State L.A., she worked as a stenographer for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and held executive secretary and legal secretary positions.

Gang's contributions in the Academic Affairs Office at Cal State L.A. have been well recognized through her years of service and commitment. In the past, she assisted A.C. Lambert, dean of building planning and construction; Don Robinson, assistant to the president; Richard M. Straw, director of curricular planning; and University presidents Albert D. Graves and Franklyn D. Johnson. Continuing in Academic Affairs, she also worked directly with vice presidents and acting vice presidents John A. Greenlee (Dr. Greenlee went on to become the University's fifth president), Kenneth A. Martyn, Eugene H. Kopp, John A. Palmer, Philip D. Vairo, Edward J. Kormondy, William A. Taylor, Mary Elizabeth Shutler, and most recently, Margaret J. Hartman. In 1984, she was honored with the Cal State L.A. Outstanding Staff Award.

At the Staff Awards program this past June, Gang was greeted with a standing ovation for her nearly 40 years of service to the University.

According to Margaret Hartman, Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs, Gang is the only staff member at Cal State L.A. who has worked in the same office for this length of time. Hartman says, "Dorothy is very much part of Cal State L.A. She is very knowledgeable about the history of the campus as well as the maintenance of the Academic Affairs office. I have enjoyed working with her, and I will indeed miss her friendship and assistance."

On July 27, 1998, Cynthia Davis assumed the post previously held by Gang. Before coming to Cal State L.A., Davis worked as an administrative assistant in the Government and Community Affairs Office of Browning Ferris Industries (BFI). Davis earned her B.S. in Business Administration from the University of La Verne.

Professional Activities

de Andalucía, Sede Santa María de la Rábida, Huelva, Spain, Aug. 3, 1998.

Stuart Fischoff (Psychology) made a presentation titled, "Favorite Film Choices: Influences of Beholder and the Beheld," at the annual American Psychological Association Convention in San Francisco, CA, Aug. 17, 1998.

Susan Lue (Health and Nutritional Sciences) presented two posters at Experimental Biology '98 held in San Francisco, Apr. 18-22, 1998. She coauthored and presented, with E. Lawlor (graduate student, Nutritional Sciences) and Regina Robles (Health and Nutritional Sciences). "Experimental Use of Soy to Replace Solid Fats, Oil, Egg and Milk in Typical High-Fat Baked Products" and "Legumes as a Fiber and Protein Additive in Foods." These abstracts attracted the attention of the food industry and resulted in several offers of research collaboration from other universities. The research was recognized as expanding the current definition of what is a functional food. Research was conducted by undergraduate and graduate students in Nutritional Sciences.

Edward S. Malecki (Political Science) participated in a "Roundtable on Defining and Assessing Outcomes in Undergraduate Political Science Education" at the Western Political Science Association annual meeting, Los Angeles, CA, Mar. 20, 1998.

Henry Mendell (Philosophy) presented a paper, "The Trouble with Eudoxus," at the Wilbur Knorr Memorial Conference, Stanford University, Mar. 13-14, and the Fourth International Conference on Ancient Mathematics, Les Treilles, France, July 20-26, 1998. He was one of the three co-organizers of the Wilbur Knorr Memorial Conference. He presented a discussion paper of Aristotle's De caelo A 5-6 at The Craven Seminar on De Caelo I, held at Cambridge University, May 25-29, 1998, and presented a paper, "Existence, First Principles, and Proofs in Early Greek Mathematics," at the Ancient Greek Philosophy Conference held at USC, Jan. 3-5, 1998.

Pamela Regan (Psychology) presented the following papers: " 'At the Very Least, He/She's Got to be...': Minimum Mate Selection Standards as a Function of Gender, Mate Value, and Relationship Context" at the International Conference on Personal Relationships, Saratoga Springs, NY, June 27, 1998; "Human Short-Term Mating Motives" and "Willingness to Compromise Ideal Mate Preferences," and chaired a session entitled "Constraints on Mate Choice" at the annual conference of the Human Behavior and Evolution Society, Davis, CA, July 8 and 9, 1998.

Gilbert Sanchez (Gang Violence Bridging Project—Pat Brown Institute) organized and chaired a founding conference to establish the Association of Community-Based Gang Intervention Workers on campus in the University-Student Union, Aug. 15, 1998. Of the estimated 40 community, nonprofit and public gang intervention agencies operating in Los Angeles County, 38 responded to invitations to the conference and 86 representatives attended. A board of directors and an advisory board are in formation, and the Gang Violence Bridging Project at the Pat Brown Institute will serve as an ongoing communication center to provide information and promote solutions developed by the new association for local strategies to deal with gang and youth violence intervention. Sanchez also took part in a panel, "Intergroup Conflict Resolution," conducted during a "Symposium on Preventing and Responding to School, Youth, Interethnic and Other Forms of Community Conflict," Claremont Inn, Aug. 7, 1998. The symposium was sponsored by the California Association of Human Relations Organization, the U.S. Department of Justice Community Relation Service, and the Western Justice Center Foundation.

Nondiscrimination Policy

California State University, Los Angeles affirms its commitment to equality of opportunity for all individuals. This commitment requires that no discrimination shall occur in any program or activity of the University on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, pregnancy, age, disability, disabled veteran's or Vietnam era veteran's status, or any other classification that precludes a person from consideration as an individual. This policy is in accord with Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972, as amended, Sections 503 and 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, and related administrative regulations and executive orders. Inquiries concerning the application of Title IX, Sections 503 and 504, and other nondiscrimination laws may be referred to the Office for Equity and Diversity (ext. 3040), the campus office assigned the administrative responsibility of reviewing such matters. Title IX inquiries may also be directed to the Regional Director of the Office for Civil Rights, Region IX, Old Federal Building, 50 United Nations Plaza, Room 239, San Francisco, CA 94102.

Policy on Sexual Harrassment

California State University, Los Angeles will take action to prevent and eliminate sexual harassment, as mandated by the Chancellor's Executive Order No. 345.

Sexual harassment is conduct subject to disciplinary action, including termination. Sexual harassment includes but is not limited to:

Unwanted sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature.

Any act which contributes to a workplace or learning environment that is hostile, intimidating, offensive, or adverse to persons because of the sexual nature of the conduct.

Conditioning an act, decision, evaluation, or recommendation on the submission to or tolerance of any act of a sexual nature.

Although this policy focuses on the treatment of persons lacking or holding lesser authority by persons possessing greater authority, it does not preclude the possibility that sexual harassment may also be perpetrated by persons lacking or holding lesser authority e.g., employee, student, or applicant. In determining whether conduct constitutes sexual harassment, the circumstances surrounding the conduct are considered.

The prohibition against sexual harassment applies to all transactions of University business, whether on or off campus.

Individuals with supervisory authority are responsible for reporting a formal complaint about sexual harassment to a designated complaint investigator. Failure to do so may lead to appropriate administrative action.

Specific rules and procedures for reporting charges of sexual harassment and for pursuing available remedies are available in the following locations: Division of Human Resource Management, Office for Equity and Diversity; Office of the Associate Vice President for Student Affairs; University Counseling Center; and Women's Resource Center.

For more information, call the Office for Equity and Diversity, ext. 3040.

STUDENT HONORS

Cal State L.A. Students Set Records for Film and Video Awards

Seven broadcasting students and one art student from Cal State L.A. won major awards in the 8th annual Media Arts Festival Film and Video Competition, part of the 1998 CSU Summer Arts Program. The awards accounted for more than 30 percent of all winners statewide.

The first place category winners were Nancy Iskandar for her music video, "Untitled," and Marlene Mathis for her documentary on education, "Meeting the Challenge." Receiving the Special Jury Award was Marcos Romero for his news/public affairs video, "Overdose." In addition, Honorable Mentions went to Edgar Yanez for his news/public affairs video, "Under Fire," Jeff Curtis and Mark Tejon for their comedy narrative, The Adventure of Dairy Boy, Rafael Monroy for an experimental work, La Passion y Dolor en le Vida de Frida, and art major Lee Yie for her experimental animation entitled "Tom's Diner." The faculty advisers who helped mentor the students were professors Alan Bloom (Communication Studies), Thelma Vickroy (Communication Studies), Matthew Jacobson (Communication Studies), and Tony Longson (Art). Bloom completed his second year as director of the Media Arts Festival.

Cal State L.A.'s broadcasting program tied with San Francisco State's cinema department for the most winners in the state.

Students Garner First Place Honors in CSU Research Competition

Cal State L.A. was honored to have two first-place winners, Robert C. Jones (l.) and Luis Enrique Selva Rebollo (r.), at the statewide CSU Student Research Competition held at CSU Chico on May 1 and 2. Of the 22 California State University campuses, 21 participated, and nearly 170 students entries were submitted at this 12th annual competition.

Robert C. Jones is a master's degree candidate in the Department of Philosophy at Cal State L.A. His project, "Is Language a Necessary Condition for Thought?" was completed under the guidance of faculty mentor Jennifer Faust (Philosophy).

The second first-place winner, Luis Enrique Selva Rebollo, is a graduate student in the Department of Physics and Astronomy. His faculty mentor is William A. Taylor (Physics and Astronomy). The title of his research presentation was "Ion Induced Electric Field Transient...The Single-Event Gate Rupture (SEGR)." Eight other Cal State L.A. students who were top winners at our campus competition participated in the CSU event. They were: Carla Fortney (art); Pedro Gonzalez (biology); Misty Iwatsu (marketing); Karen Leung (biology graduate student); Rene Martinez (electrical engineering); Yanira Osorio (biology graduate student); Sumanta Kumar Pal (biology); and Malcolm Potter (sociology graduate student).

"The ten students exemplified the wonderful rainbow of age, disciplines and ethnic backgrounds at Cal State L.A.," said Costello Brown (Associate Dean, Graduate Studies and Research), who has been the campus coordinator of the annual event for seven years.

The first level of the competition is usually held on each CSU campus during the winter and is open to all enrolled students in any field of study, at both undergraduate and graduate levels.

Students Win Top Prizes at National Marketing Competition

Cal State L.A. students recently won the Top Marketing [Project] Award and Top Region Award at the 1998 Pi Sigma Epsilon (PSE) National Competition in Norfolk, Virginia.

Under the direction of PSE's Phi Chapter president Tony Au, competitors Misty Iwatsu, Margarita Perez Sanchez, Ronald Yee, Teresa Cisneros, and Marie Esperanza Garcia defeated more than 60 PSE marketing teams from other universities around the country.

The winning project was developed through General Motors Marketing Internship project headed by Marketing chair Shirley Stretch-Stephenson. Students partnered with Bewley Allen Cadillac Dealership of Alhambra and executed the Catera project in spring quarter, 1997.

During the competition, Cal State L.A.'s PSE team presented the Cadillac Catera project before a panel of eight judges. The student team was questioned about the development, implementation, and assessment of the marketing plan and was assessed on its ability to communicate and to effectively present the project.

Pi Sigma Epsilon is a national, professional co-educational fraternity in marketing, sales management, and selling.

Golden Key Honors

Fred Witzig (junior, social science/ history) and Moong-Shi Chan (senior, accounting) were both recently awarded scholarships at the annual membership induction reception for the Cal State L.A. chapter of the Golden Key National Honor Society on April 3, 1998. Witzig carries a 3.982 GPA, and has been named to the National Dean's List. He is a Sunday school teacher and church trustee. Moong-Shi Chan carries a 4.0 GPA. Chan was vice president of the Business Student Council and has been named to the National Dean's List. Faculty and staff selected for honorary membership in the Society and recognized at the ceremony were William A. Taylor (Physics and Astronomy), Chris Arnetter (Rowland Unified School District), David Perrott (Psychology), and Thomas Neal Laffey (Student Life). Honorary members receive full rights and privileges of the Society and are selected based on contributions to the community, the University, and its students.

Sigma Delta Pi Literary Honors

Spanish majors Froylan Cabuto and Juan Orlando Ramos, both members in good standing of the National Collegiate Hispanic Honor Society Sigma Delta Pi, have won the first and second literary prizes, respectively, for their creative work published in 1998 in El Cid, a literary journal for Sigma Delta Pi members. The selection committee consists of professors of Spanish from the Citadel, a chapter of Tau Iota (which publishes the journal), and other universities nationwide.

IN MEMORIAM

Jeanie Collar

Jeanie Collar died on May 12, 1998, at St. Joseph Hospital, while in cardiac care as a result of a heart attack on March 2, 1998.

She started working at Cal State L.A. on September 24, 1962 in the Placement Office. She also spent a few years working off campus for the Peace Corps before returning to Cal State L.A. to work in the Communications Office, where she became a section supervisor. She later moved to the office of the vice president for Information Resources Management. Her last position on campus was in the Career Center as an administrative assistant. She was working there when she had her first stroke on April 7, 1996.

A long-time friend and former Cal State L.A. staff member, Jan White, notes that Jeanie was a thoughtful person, always "ready to lend a helping hand," and will be remembered for her "cheery personality and easy smile."

Collar is survived by her three children, Eric, Valerie and Cathy, and her three grandchildren, Jessica, Samantha and Christopher. She also leaves a brother and two sisters. Her family has indicated that donations may be made to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Butrus Abd al-Malik

Butrus Abd al-Malik, Professor of History from 1969 to 1990, died July 12. The History Department has established a scholarship fund in his honor.

He had already served nearly a normal life-time of distinguished scholarship and teaching when he came to Cal State L.A. in 1969 as a Distinguished Visiting Professor of History at age 60.

Daniel Crecelius (History) had been his student at Princeton and was able to invite Abd al-Malik to Cal State L.A. as a visiting professor. Asked to stay, Abd al-Malik remained at the University until his retirement at age 81.

"Ilive by teaching," said Abd al-Malik, who never missed a class in his entire career until he was hospitalized by cancer. Even then he made heroic efforts to meet nearly every class while he was in chemotherapy.

Students appreciated his efforts. His dean called him "the most beloved teacher whom I have ever known." He was famous for his opening day tour de force, in which he provided the etymology of the name of every student in the course. Years later, students would be overwhelmed when he would call them by name as they passed on campus.

An unprecedented legion of students followed him to whatever courses he taught. Faculty from a variety of disciplines and administrators often sat (or even stood) in his classes to learn from him.

He taught courses in Arabic, Coptic, Aramaic, and Hebrew languages, as well as English, and was fluent in Greek and Latin. He was respected internationally as a scholar of the Bible, an authority on early church history, a linguist and humanistic professor. The most memorable of his countless scholarly publications is the modern Arabic translation of the Bible from original Greek and Hebrew sources. This has a companion aid, the Dictionary of the Bible in Arabic.

In his letter supporting his colleague's nomination for the CSU Outstanding Professor award in 1985, John Allswang (History) wrote that "the concept of 'Outstanding Professor' better fits him than any academic I have ever known." In addition to that nomination, Abd al-Malik was a campus Outstanding Professor in 1973 and won the CASE (Council for Advancement and Support of Education) Silver Medal in 1986.

An ordained Presbyterian minister, he was a member of the campus ministry during his 22 years at Cal State L.A.

Gerhard Albersheim

Gerhard Albersheim, Professor of Music from 1956 to 1970, died last year at a retirement home in Arlesheim, Switzerland.

He earned a Ph.D. from the University of Vienna and performed frequently on the piano, both as soloist and accompanist. Eminent soloists whom he accompanied included Jussi Bjoerling, Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau, Lauritz Melchior, Ezio Pinza, and Elizabeth Schumann. He was honored by the campus as Outstanding Professor in 1968.

Albersheim had been hidden from the Nazis in Vienna by the woman who became his wife, Erna. When he was invited to fill a position in the Los Angeles Conservatory at UCLA, she agreed to move on the condition that they return to Europe when he retired, to be near her children from an earlier marriage. They moved to Basel, Switzerland in 1970, where they remained until her death.

Albersheim remained active as a pianist and interpretation coach for most of nearly three decades in Switzerland. During the 1980s, he published Die Tonsprache (The Language of Tones) and a second edition of Psychology of Music, which was first published in 1974.

John R. Cox

John Cox, Professor of Finance from 1955 to 1983, passed away on April 24 at the age of 79 after a short illness. Memorial services were held on April 29 at Rose Hills Memorial Park in Whittier.

Cox received his Ph.D. in economics from the University of Southern California in 1962, already having acquired a C.P.A. license in California in 1951.

He rose from private to lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army Corps over a four-year period. For a good part of this time, he was with the 57th Bomber Wing. Having scored highly in the sciences and mathematics on the battery of inducted tests, Cox was assigned to meteorological school and was trained as, and became, a weather forecaster, setting up the first weather station.

During his long tenure at the University, Cox contributed to the School of Business and Economics and the University in a variety of ways, particularly in curriculum matters. It was Cox who headed complete program revisions that had to be made to conform with the demands of accreditation reviews. In each case the results were unqualified successes, and he continued to serve the School even after retirement.

Solomon Diamond

Solomon Diamond, Professor of Psychology from 1949 to 1971, and one of the first two recipients of the Outstanding

Professor award from the Trustees of the (then) California State Colleges, died of natural causes at his home in Berkeley in July. He was 91 years old.

Diamond received his doctorate from Columbia University in 1936. As one of the earliest faculty members, Diamond shaped the character of the Department of Psychology and, to a great extent, the University as well. He continued to teach a course, History of Psychology, in retirement until 1986.

Voter Registration on Campus, Sept. 30

The Cal State L.A. campus will be the site of a major voter registration drive on Wed., Sept. 30. The drive, spearheaded by Associated Students, Inc. (ASI) features Assembly Speaker Antonio Villaraigosa and California Secretary of State Bill Jones at an 11:20 a.m.-12:15 p.m. rally in the Free Speech Area. At 12:20 p.m., Jones will speak to a combined class of Political Science, Communication and Business majors, and visiting high school students. Speaker Villaraigosa will address a similar morning class. "We are hoping to register every eligible student, faculty and staff member," said ASI president Hector Barajas. "More than 60 area universities will be following our lead and organizing similar drives on their campuses, making this the biggest student voter registration effort in history," said Barajas. Music, free popcorn, sno-cones, cotton candy, drinks, candy bars and back-to-school gifts provided by the University-Student Union, UAS and Pepsi Cola will add to the festive atmosphere.

Education Bond is Prop. 1A on November Ballot

G overnor Pete Wilson signed the $9.2 billion K-University Public Education Facilities Bond Act on August 27, 1998, placing the important measure on the November ballot as Proposition 1A. An estimated $832 million is allocated for the CSU through 2001-2002 academic year. If Prop. 1A is passed, Cal State L.A. could receive more than $56 million for facilities projects.

The bond would fund upgrades to correct structural, health and safety code deficiencies; renovations, including technology upgrades; and new facilities, so that more students can attend CSU campuses.

If passed, the bond would provide Cal State L.A. with $4.4 million for equipment for the remodeled Engineering and Technology building, and $9.89 million for Music building code compliance upgrade. Funding equaling more than $30 million for Physical Sciences building seismic renovation planning and construction, an additional $795,000 for Music building equipment, and more than $11 million for telecommunications infrastructure working drawings and construction has been proposed and is anticipated, pending approval of the CSU Trustees and the Governor, if Prop. 1A passes.

chological Association, Diamond was a widely recognized scholar who read five languages with facility. His voluminous scholarly publications spanned more than 60 years. His published books were Personality and Temperament (1957), Information and Error (1959), Inhibition and Choice (1963), The World of Probability: Statistics in Science (1964), and The Roots of Psychology (1974). He was author of innumerable journal articles and invited addresses.

He traveled through Europe during a sabbatical leave in 1964 to purchase nearly 400 rare books that represented the original sources essential to the history of psychology. These books became the basis for lectures in the History of Psychology course that he taught for many years. His huge library of rare books, including many medieval texts, has been donated to the Archives of the History of Psychology at the University of Akron.

He is survived by his wife of 70 years, Florence, also a psychologist, and by a son and grandchildren.

Michael Roffe, a former student of Diamond's and now chair of the Department of Psychology, declared, "all of us who had the good fortune to know Sol as teacher, colleague, or friend will feel the loss of this valued member of our profession."
